REMAINS OF WIZARD DISCOVERED

SED, Isk'eldan – Missing for nearly a month, the body of Dre'ath of Na'than was found near the ruins of Glarithan located near the frontiers of the Na'than and Drabe'than barbarian lands. A member of the Gramarye, Dre'ath was in search of clues that may lead to the location of the mythical library of the bard clans. In his four previous years of archeological digs at the sight of Glarithan, he was unable to find anything connecting to the bards. He had, however, discovered several significant artifacts that had gone unseen for centuries, including the Crown of Bardred. Believed to have been the first barbarian to earn a seat as a Guarnen since the creation of the Gramarye in 2830 OC, Dre'th of Na'than was 51. No word has been given as to the cause of death or whether his assistants will continue in his footsteps.

TENSION MOUNTS IN SALVENDER

NOSHIRE, Taff-Drinol – With the forest of Taff-Drinol still being the site of many strange disappearances of late, it appears only a matter of days before war breaks out in this region. The cities of Ples and Quil, held by the armies of Trinthal, have been blockaded by a joint Avoltan-Lebedath navy. Palinth has threatened to blockade the city of Unther as well. The Zari nation of Kedlan has also pledged military support to the growing "Hardroth Coalition" should war break out. Other nations are aligning themselves with Trinthal, however. Yorthin and Bordoan have each issued formal warnings to the Coalition and their soldiers have been seen on the march. Meanwhile, Prince Tolyran of Taff-Drinol has issued an ultimatum to the government of Trinthal. It demands "the immediate withdrawal of Trinthal's soldiery from Quil...failure to comply with this demand by 3rd Padri, Rethrimyk will result in the irrevocable destruction of those forces."
